

2001, A T_EX Odyssey / Hans Hagen

This presentation (style) was made for the T_EX User Group conference of 2001. The background is a slow spinning sky inspired by the theme of the conference 'A T_EX Odyssey' which in itself is a wink to Arthur Clarke's '2001, A Space Odyssey'.

The quotes presented here are taken from a couple of books that I read over the last few years and refer to the way scientists and science fictionists (who often happen have a scientific background) see the future of information transfer.

This presentation needs Acrobat 5 or higher and has the following navigational tools:

- a pop-up (roll-over) menu at the right bottom
- remarks that pop up when clicking on the window
- a tooltip at the bottom of the text window

Within the quotes, there are simple one-line remarks. These were to challenge the audience into discussions during the rest of the conference.

Once documented, the presentation style used here will be part of the regular ConT_EXt distribution.
